Class of '51

The Class of '51 is composed of twenty-five members. They have chosen Miss Stuessy, head of the Home Economics Department, as their Class Advisor. The officers elected were: President Don Cliff, Vice-President James Winter, Secretary Treasurer Ruth Wells, and Student Council Representative Donna Sweeney.

The Class flower is the Camelia. The colors are wine and white, and the motto is "Ever Forward, Never Backward."

The Class motto "Ever Forward, Never Backward" is a very fitting motto. The Class works hard and is getting to top place in the eyes of the faculty and the student body. We hope the teachers appreciate them as much when they are Seniors as they do now. The Class may have its bad points (as all classes do) but its good ones show up too.

Plans were made for the Junior-Senior Prom. Vincent Warren and his thirteen piece orchestra accompanied this event. It was held on the night of May 20, 1950. The theme of the Prom was "Hawaii." The setting was very beautiful. Congratulations on your success.

The Basketball Team is largely composed of the boys of the Class of '51. We hope they'll keep up the school tradition in the year to follow. The Cheer-leader from this class is Kay Thill. Carry on Kay.

The Class of '51, a group of twenty-five promising students have lived up to their ways. We, the Class of '50, wish them luck in the future. We end this with "Carry On".

Basketball

The Hanover Red Devils started the basketball season of 1949-1950 with two non-conference games against Orangeville and Chadwick, both of which they lost. Confidence in the team picked up as they slammed into the U. S. Grant Conference with three straight wins. However, the boys won only two of the remaining conference games and one of the non-conference games. At the close of the season, they held third place in the U. S. Grant Conference.

The Devils also won third place in the Jo Daviess County Tournament. Hanover boys played their best game against Morrison, a team from a much larger school, in the Regional Tourney, although they lost the game 46 to 41.

Don Schatzer, capable Hanover center, was high point man for the year with a total of 299 points in 22 games. Dick King ranked second with 242 points in 23 games.

The Ponies, Hanover's lightweight team, played a very good season, winning 14 of their 19 scheduled games. They won first place in the U. S. Grant Conference, lightweight division.

Ken Campbell, promising Sophomore center, was high point man for the Ponies with 178 points in 18 games. Albert Fassiotto, in second place, had 148 points for 18 games.

CLASS HISTORY

September of 1938 was a day not to be forgotten for 18 little darlings who came tripping lightly into Mrs. Gathe's (Now Mrs. Morissey) Hall of Fame.

Can you roll back the years and see the innocent little faces of: Mary Adams, Larry Bearsly, Clifford Boop, Dorothy Calvert, Clarence Chapman, Terence Fletcher, Evelyn Gokey, Wesley Ingersoll, Jane Lindberg, James McColley, Patrick O'Rourke, Jim Petitgout, Pat Reed, Vonda Sanderson, Bob Thill, Helenmae Virtue, John Winter, and Harold Wible.

Due to various circumstances, a few left us now and then but there were always others added to our ranks. In the second grade Annabelle Aitken, Charles Leahy, and George Hocking joined us. Mrs. Gathe decided to let Miss Carbine (Mrs. Hastings) teacher of 3rd and 4th grades try to cope with all these little problems. And so with the new members Eldor Edmonds, Gordon Wilkinson, Norman Hedeman, James Belk, Howard Wendell and in fourth grade, Daniel Dennison, John Dittmar, Robert Yaeger, William Yaeger, Carol Kuebler, Wilburn Smith, Irene Smalley, Louise Starr, Alyce Jobe, and Elmer Mason we studied constantly (well, anyway we studied.)

Time seemed to fly and soon we had finished our knitting, tonette band, etc., and went into Miss Lanning's (now Mrs. Hansen) room.

It was decided in that year to try a new plan of having different teachers come to the rooms. We were truly fortunate in having Mrs. Blunt, Miss Chapman, and Mrs. Welsh. They were not so fortunate but didn't complain over us. Ken Flack, Mary Harper, Tom Holcombe, George Pennington, Clarice Perry, Zoe Stephenson, Luther Streight, Burdette Webster, Lee Pontenberg, Douglas Schaal, and Betty Street took their places in our midst.

We liked the arrangement of new teachers but there was much confusion between classes, so in the next year, we went back to the old method of one teacher per room. Miss Chapman (now Mrs. Morrison) was our sixth grade teacher. And with seven new pupils, Beulah Alexander, John Holman, Carl Reifsteck, Floyd Wescott, Shirley Gamble, Charlotte Porter, Rita Ostendorf, we had quite a large class.

We gradually passed on, if you will excuse the phrase, to seventh grade, where Mrs. Keene taught us our Reading, Writing, and Arithmetic. We gained five new people in this grade, James Seeley, Marion Weist, Lilian Howard, Melvin Watson, Robert Leifker.

And so we come to the most sorrowful year of all, that was our last year in grade school. Jeanette Cook, Earl Freshwater, Philip Schaible, Naomi Hurt, Pat Ganoe, Dwight Ganoe, came into our class and Mrs. Ernst tried to manage us.

We were just like any Freshman, terrible scared of those almighty Seniors, and of some harsh teachers, but we had a lot of fun included in our studies. First, of all was the initiation where the girls had to wear gunnysacks with their hair in pigtails and pincurls, and the boys had to wear women's dresses, and high heel shoes. There were quite a few kids came in from country schools, and then a lot of new people moving in, so 1976-1977 was a year of significant change for the organization. The following table shows the results of the various projects undertaken during the year.

The first project was the development of a new curriculum for the elementary school. This was completed in the summer of 1976 and was implemented in the fall of 1976. The second project was the construction of a new building for the high school. This was completed in the summer of 1977 and was implemented in the fall of 1977.

The third project was the development of a new curriculum for the high school. This was completed in the summer of 1977 and was implemented in the fall of 1977. The fourth project was the construction of a new building for the middle school. This was completed in the summer of 1978 and was implemented in the fall of 1978.

The fifth project was the development of a new curriculum for the middle school. This was completed in the summer of 1978 and was implemented in the fall of 1978.

The sixth project was the construction of a new building for the elementary school. This was completed in the summer of 1979 and was implemented in the fall of 1979. The seventh project was the development of a new curriculum for the elementary school. This was completed in the summer of 1980 and was implemented in the fall of 1980.

The eighth project was the construction of a new building for the high school. This was completed in the summer of 1981 and was implemented in the fall of 1981.

The ninth project was the development of a new curriculum for the high school. This was completed in the summer of 1982 and was implemented in the fall of 1982.

The tenth project was the construction of a new building for the middle school. This was completed in the summer of 1983 and was implemented in the fall of 1983.

The eleventh project was the development of a new curriculum for the middle school. This was completed in the summer of 1984 and was implemented in the fall of 1984.

The twelfth project was the construction of a new building for the elementary school. This was completed in the summer of 1985 and was implemented in the fall of 1985.

our class reached a total of 35 students. Estella Allen, Marshall Bullock, Donald Carnaghi, Violet Curtis, Jay Gantenbein, Howard Haggerty, Mildred Haggerty, Dale Irwin, Victor Mason, Darell Massie, Clara Belle Miner, Jane Potter, Robert Ryniewicz, Pat Dittmar, struggled through Algebra and some of the other hard subjects with us.

We gave two class plays that year with the help and direction of Mr. Burns, our advisor. They were "Tut, Tut, Tuttle", and "Consolation". We had lots of fun putting on a dance for the school, called the Freshman Frolic.

In our Sophomore year, only three people joined us, George Bittner, Ione Line, Richard Pettengill. We made most of our money that year through magazine sales.

During our Junior year, Erma Jean Doran, and Albert Fassiotto came to Hanover High School. Our main event that year was the Junior and Senior Prom. with Gus Fuhrman and his Orchestra. Our theme was Stardust which we tried to carry out in our decoration. We had two book sales, and one play a comedy, entitled, "Act Your Age".

Our Senior year went just as fast as all these previous years even though we have constantly said we wanted it to hurry and end. We gave a Christmas dance, sold magazines, books, and cards and raised enough money to go to Washington, D. C. for our class trip.

We will graduate as a class of 18 pupils with one, Mary Adams attending the University of Illinois.

There are some of us who realized too late that High School is really a place to study hard and not to play all the time, and so we are leaving this one bit of advice to the students of this High School.

Class Prophecy

This is Professor Time-Has-Flown and in this year of 1993 we find ourselves, my crew and I, taking a trip in our home-made balloon over this vast country of ours.

As we look down we see the great state of Texas. Here we see a large field of oil wells with a Dude Ranch on one end of the field. At the ranch house we see the owner, "Black Gold Hedeman," richest oil merchant in the United States.

In his office he has many people working for him. We look inside to see that one of them is Mary Adams, who is working on the H-Bomb. This important bomb will be made entirely out of wool. We sincerely hope Mary succeeds in her experiment.

Now the balloon floats over a huge hospital. Inside there are many nurses bustling around, following doctors' orders. They all seem to look alike in their white uniforms, but finally we notice Dorothy Calvert about to stick a huge needle into a woman's arm. The woman is screaming as two nurses try to hold her down. One of the strong-arm ladies is Milly B. Haggerty holding on with all her might. Leaving them to tend their duties, we find ourselves floating a long distance to the city of New York.

In this huge city we come to a large brick building with a sign, "School for Settled Sedate Sophisticated Spinsters." We find, much to our surprise, it is operated by the only old maid of the class of '50, Violet Curtis.

Out in front of the home we see a poster which reads "Our Lecturer For This Evening Will Be Mrs. Erma Jean Snodgrass, Pumpernickle, Burnibuss, Schnirkle(four times a widow), Who Will Speak on The Subject, 'Live Alone and Like It.' Spinsters and Widows are Welcome"

Who is this dashing figure walking down Fifth Avenue, in his white tie, tails, and top hat, surrounded by a bevy of beautiful blondes? He is all the rage of Fifth Avenue; none other than Dale Irwin. We might have passed him up, had not one of our members noticed the ever-present black boots, which were the only things he brought from Hanover.

As we are floating out of N. Y. City, we see in the suburbs a sign that says, "Wintersburgh." In this noisy bit of heaven the entire population is made up of the offsprings of the 22 children of John Winter, another member of the Class of '50.

Going westward we stop at another large city, the Television Center, Chicago. As we go into a Television Studio, we see Albert Fossiotto, one of the handsomest boys in the Class of '50. Unfortunate for his public all they see on the screen are his feet, for he is modeling shoes.

Ah! Here come some ladies modeling bathing suits. One of these is the one and only Pat Reed. She is modeling the new style turtle-neck, anklelength, longsleeved bathing suits, with that startling bare midriff. How daring can you get!!!

In another part of this city we see a figure dashing down a football field toward the goal post. He is running so fast that he cannot stop. Finally he crashes into a building, and we hear the announcer say that this running figure, who just made a touchdown, was the greatest football player of all time, Marshall Bullock.

Could it be there are more of the Class of '50 in this same City? We see the National Barn Dance is in progress. Nearing the open air arena a shrill voice rises causing the balloon to tremble a bit. The hillbilly singing sensation in all states East of the Rockies is our own Shirley Gamble. Glancing over the Square Dancers we see a familiar figure, none other than Vonda Sanderson, and her partner, Gene Kelly. This is a nightly twosome, so the gossips say.

A southerly wind is blowing us Northward to the Great North Woods of Minnesota. What is that below? It is a lumber camp run by the logger, Bob Finley, who has recently acquired the title: Paul Bunyan, Ex-Hanover Onion."

This southerly wind is a busy wind for it has just blown a newspaper up to us and lucky we are to read that the Brooklyn Dodgers have unanimously chosen Hanover's Clara Belle Miner for their $10,000 a-year bat girl. Good luck Clara Belle who has at last, at the age of 60, realized her life's ambition.

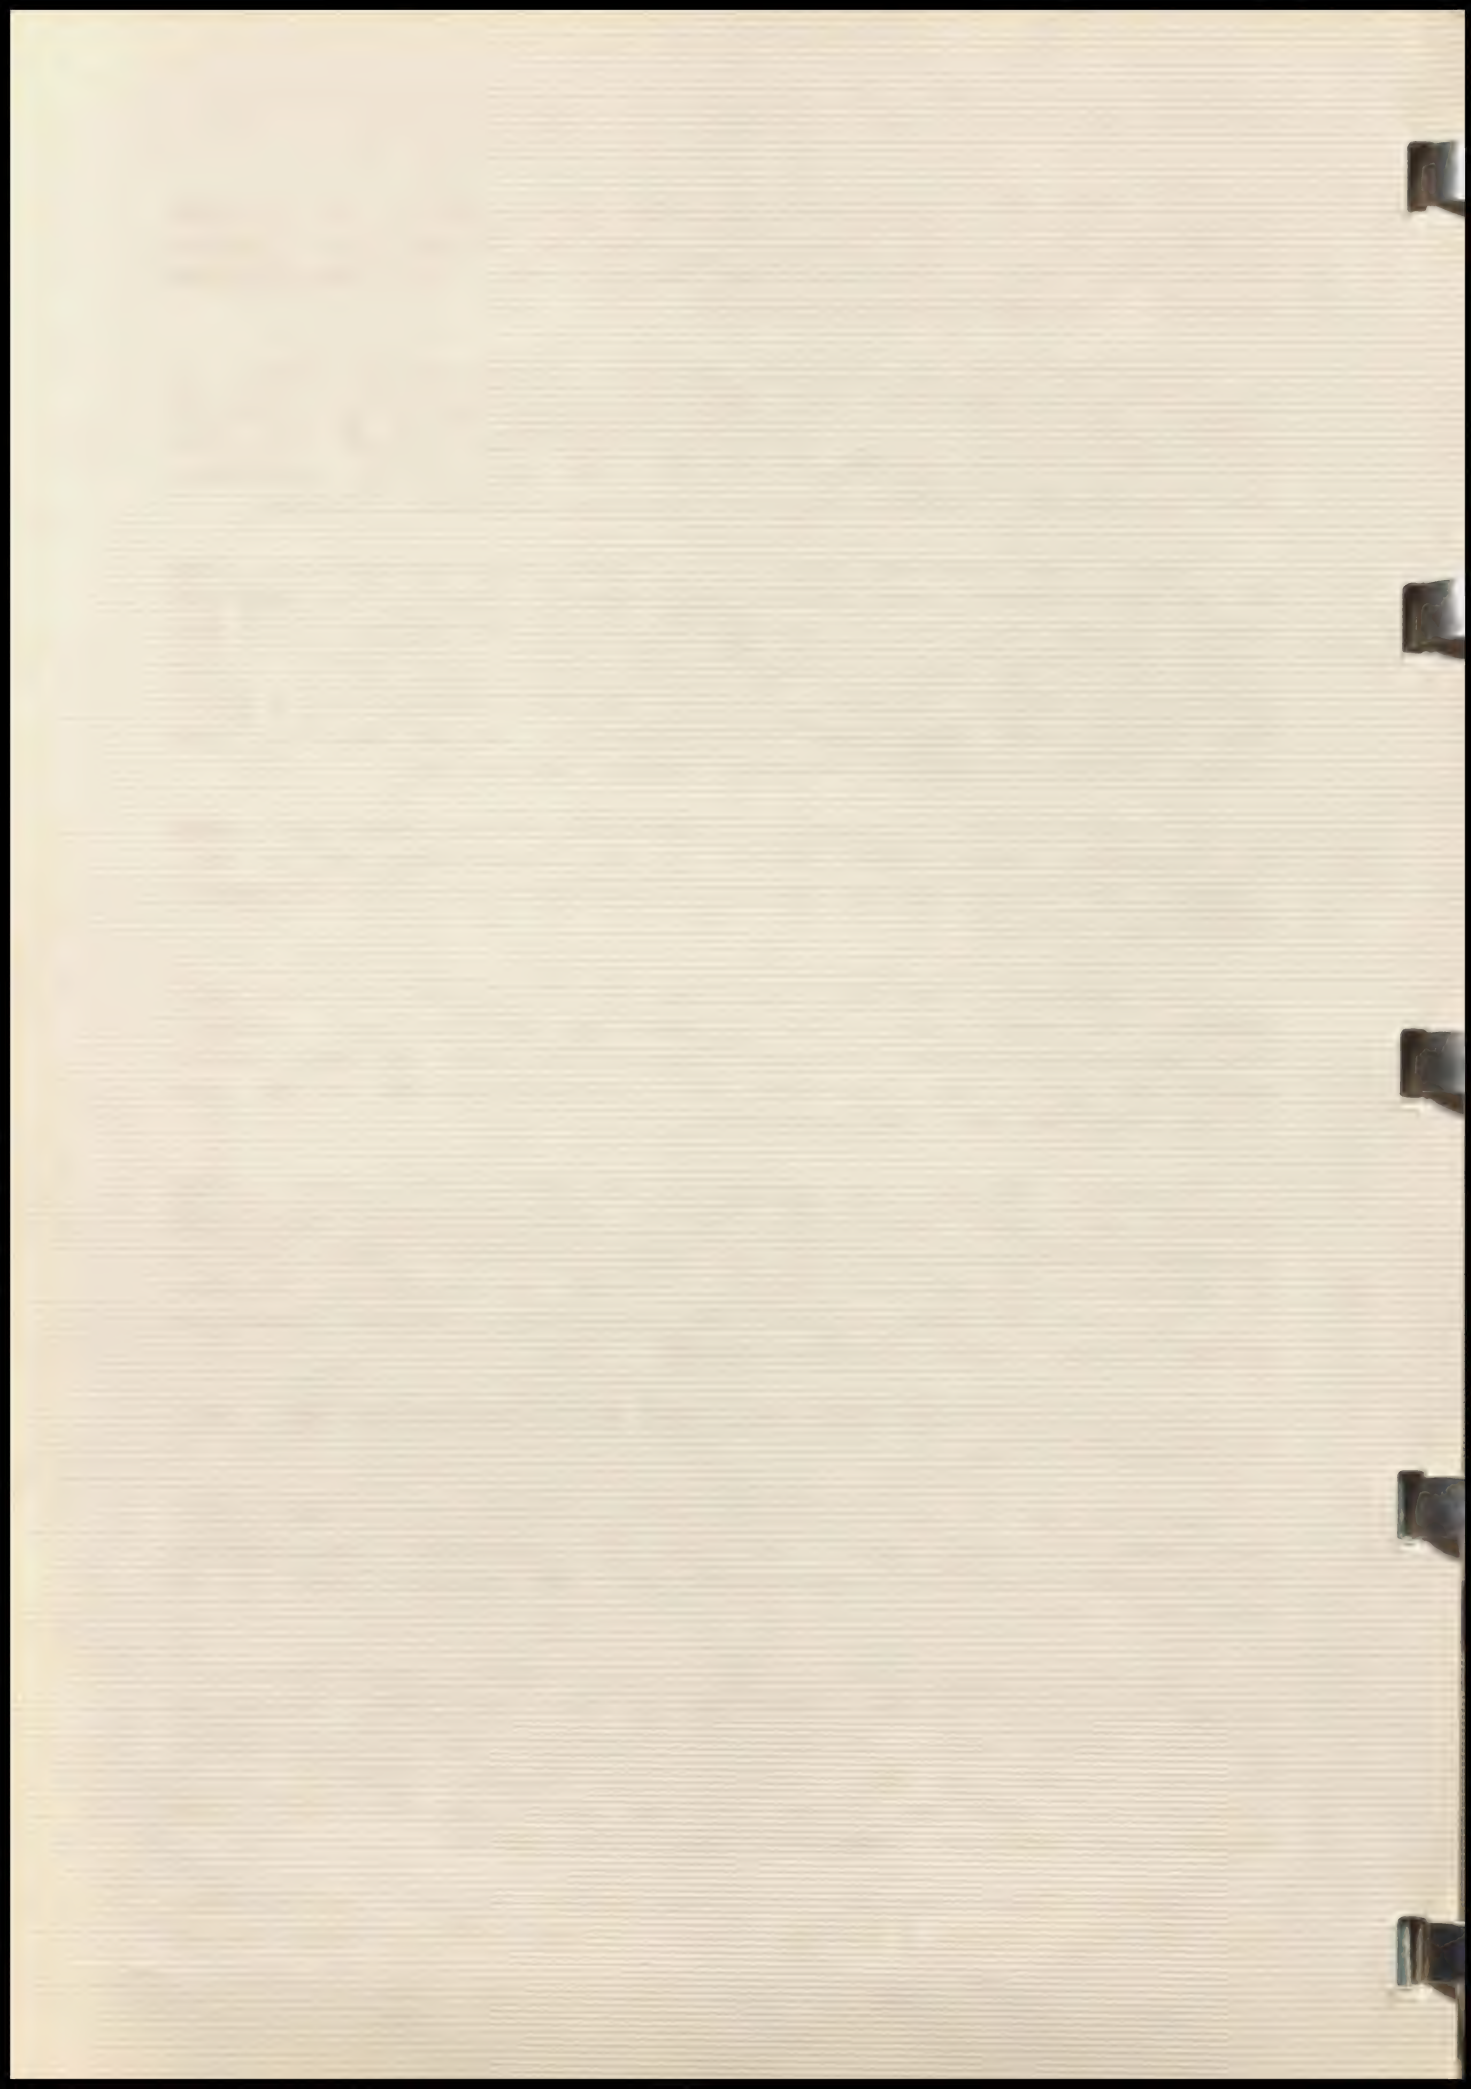

We wonder now what has happened to the rest of the Class of '50 when we hear a great shout rise. We see people watching intently, as a figure dribbles the ball down the floor at Madison Square Garden. We look at the scoreboard, 33-33. It is the last minute of the game. Will she make it? Have no fear--for Jane Potter, greatest woman basketball player, never misses a basket.

The people gradually fade away, when we find ourselves out over the Atlantic Ocean.

Looking down we see a huge battleship. We can see figures rushing around the deck. Could it be? Yes, it is--Jeanette Cook, a Wave. As we watch he swallow a seasickness pill, the balloon floats on to the last scene.

The trip is almost over, we are going to land on this open field below. But we can't, for as we come closer we see that a wrestling match is taking place. In this arena there are two lady wrestlers. We hear the announcer say, "In this corner we have, weighing in at 360, Horrible Helen Mae Virtue. She has just become the World's Champion Lady Wrestler. Congratulations, Helen Mae!!!

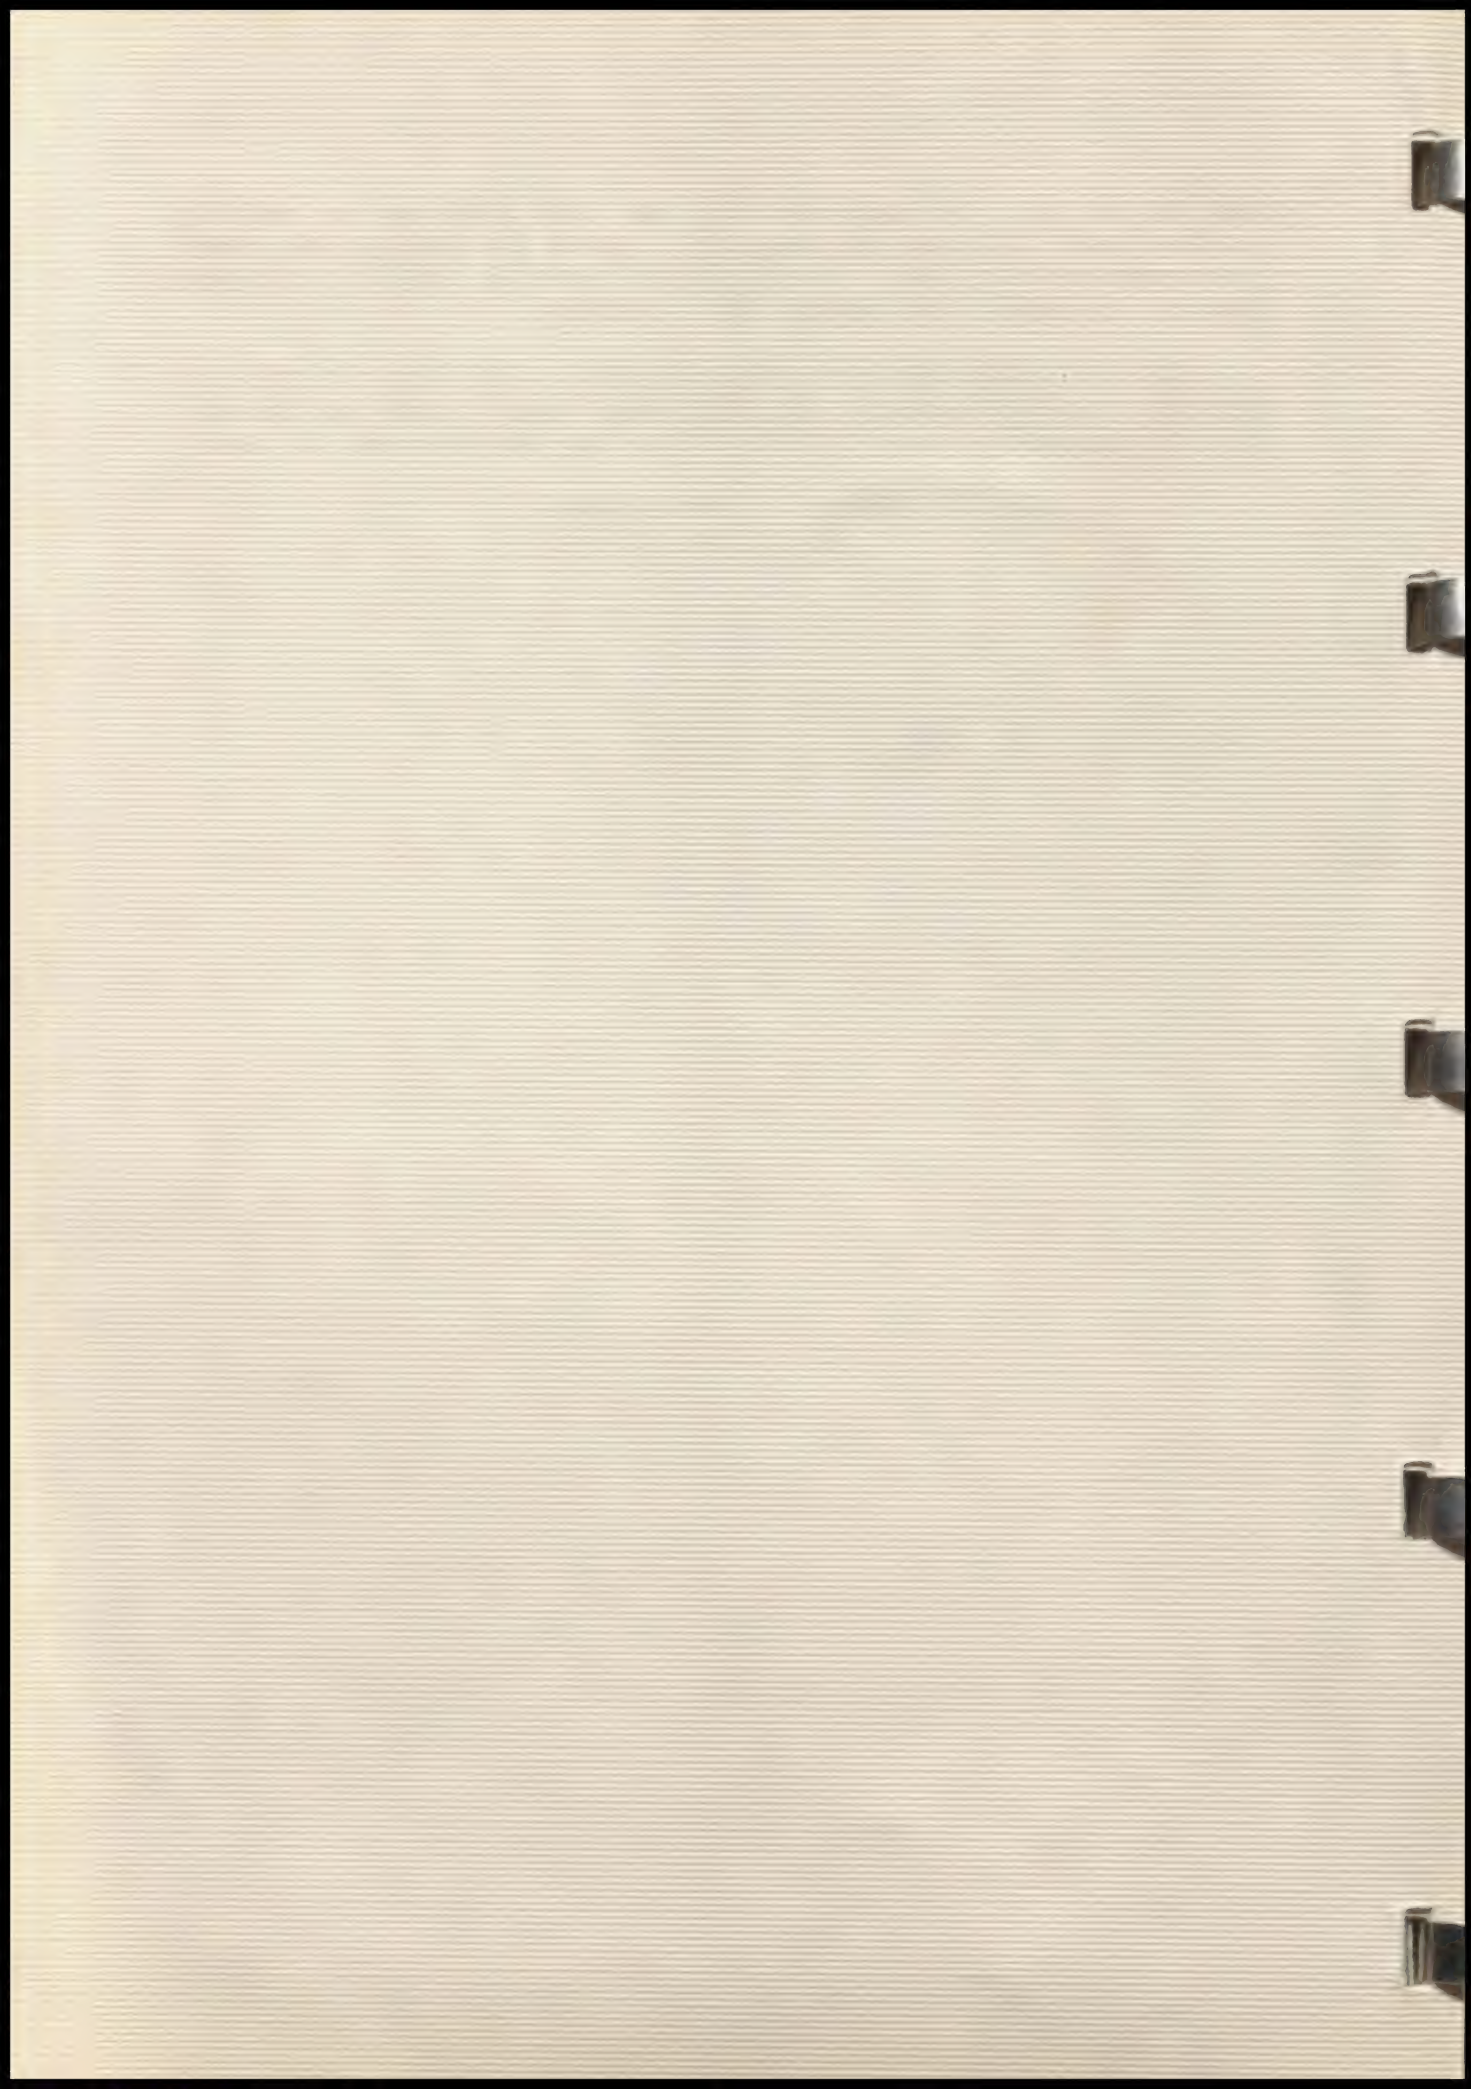

Since we aren't able to land there we must go on. What is that mass of color below? I believe it's a Circus. Let's go lower and see what we can see. It looks as if the fat lady is doing her washing in the field along side the big tent. There's a familiar face which is recognizable in spite of its gain in poundage. The only fat lady who ever reached 1,000 pounds: Carol Kuebler.

Well, I guess we've seen every member of the Class of 1950 on this trip and we certainly are happy they've all become so successful. Since we've just about run out of hot air it's time to land.

There's Hanover Below!
So down we go.

WE, THE SENIOR CLASS, DO WILL THE FOLLOWING:

Mary Adams wills her curling iron to Grace Schaible.

Marshall Bullock wills his pool-playing ability to Jim Winters and Tom Sherrard.

Dorothy Calvert wills her bullheadedness to John Wunderlin and Ruth Wells.

Violet Curtis wills her studiousness to Dale Kean.

Jeannette Cook wills her blue glasses to Dick King.

Erma Jean Doran wills her out-of-town interests to Bob Jagielski.

Albert Fassiotto wills his lard to Don Schatzer.

Robert Finley wills his card-playing ability to Jack Hanny.

Millie Bee Haggerty wills her hope chest to Don Cliff and Carol Kaufman.

Norman Hedeman wills his bow legs to Sonya Ames.

Dale Irwin wills his ability to talk about nothing to Ken Flack and Wayne Scharf.

Carol Kuebler wills her house-keeping ability to Bonnie King and her interests in Savanna to Kay Thill.

Clarabelle Miner wills her pitching ability to Raymond Francke.

Jane Potter wills her height to Dick Henschel.

Pat Reed wills her college interests in Champaign to Donna Sweeney.

Vonda Sanderson wills her Charlestoneing ability to Jeanette Walker.

Helenmae Virtue wills her gracefulness to Jim Pettigout.

John Winter wills his blush to Velma Suck and his height to Jack Stutzman.

We hope that you will use these things that we have willed you to the best of your ability and remember: Do not expectorate into the wind lest thou spit in they own face.
